School Opens Next Tuesday.

School opens next Tuesday, September 2nd. Professor Madding is anxious that parents send their children to school promptly on the opening day.

Books will be free to children in the primary and grammar grades.

Attention is called to a regulation by the school board regarding the entrance of children to the public school for the first time. Heretofore they have been received at any time during the year. Beginning with this term, they will be received during the first four weeks of each half of the school term. This applies only to beginners who are entering school for the first time. The reason for this regulation is that after a class of beginners is started the progress of the class is retarded by the entrance of pupils who, because of their late entrance, require special attention from the teacher to the neglect of the regular class.

The following are the teachers for the ensuing year:

G. H. Madding, principal.
Miss Lena Keyte, first grade.
Miss Ruth Armstrong, first grade.
Miss Alice Berwick, first and second grades.
Miss Ellen Smith, first and second grades.
Miss Edith Doherty, second and third grades.
Miss Luna Corbin, second and third grades.
Miss Pauline Purcer, fourth grade.
Miss Mattie Purcer, fifth and sixth grades.
Miss Martha Stuchul, High School.
Miss Grace Quigley, High School.

"HANDS OFF."

United States Declines to Intervene in Mexican Troubles.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 27.—President Wilson went to congress today and revealed how the Huerta provisional government of Mexico had rejected the friendship of the United States in its efforts to aid in the establishment of peace and government which would be obeyed and respected by Mexico's own people.

In a statement which breathed regret and sympathy in every phase, the president clung tenaciously to optimism as to the ultimate result, notwithstanding the pessimistic facts confronting the two nations.

After picturing the hopelessness for Mexico if she maintained her present position, "isolated and without friends who can effectively aid her," the president announced the necessity of a firm neutral stand by this government, a policy of "hands off" to await the time of Mexico's awakening.

He also voiced an urgent appeal for all Americans to leave Mexico and for the United States to aid them in every possible way, but in emphatic language he served notice upon those who seem to exercise authority in the revolution that they would be held to a reckoning for the losses and suffering of American citizens.

The message of the president was received with applause by members of the house and senate, assembled in joint session in the house chamber, and tonight the machinery of the government is in motion for making effective the policy of neutrality and "hands off" while the warring factions continue the struggle.

To prevent the shipment of arms or munitions into any part of Mexico or to any faction, United States troops on the border have been warned to exercise increased vigilance. Secretary Daniels conferred with the president today and the navy department is ready to dispatch more ships to Mexican waters if required to prevent shipments of arms to Mexico by sea.

Foreign powers, have been asked to place an embargo on the shipment of munitions of war and arms to Mexico, but the president in his message asserted that this government had been given the generous moral support of foreign nations in the proposals to the Huerta government which have been rejected.

It became known that the administration has under serious consideration the ordering of several thousand more troops to the Mexican border line and it is said that cabinet members have urged that this be done.

The state department estimates that there are now in Mexico not more than 15,000 Americans, whereas there were 60,000 several years ago. There are not less than two thousand in Mexico City.

President Wilson tonight warned all Americans to leave Mexico at once. At the same time the American embassy and all consular representatives throughout Mexico were instructed "to notify all officials, civil and military, in Mexico" that they would be held strictly responsible for harm or injury done to Americans or their property.

Bryan dispatched long telegrams to the embassy and all consular representatives, quoting extracts of the president's address. In his message to consuls he instructed them to give every aid possible to departing Americans, furnishing transportation and other pecuniary assistance to the needy. They were informed that a sufficient number of ships would be provided to carry away those at sea coast towns.

Foreign governments will be notified of the action of the United States, so that they may give similar advice, but American consuls will help all foreigners in any emergency. Within a day or to announcement is expected of the mobilization of a large number of troops along the southern frontier to enforce neutrality in the traffic of arms and munitions of war.
